Some months ago J. Weber announced the official death of NOVY SVET, one of the most significant projects of the second post-industrial generation... and for many a true European legend. Time for us to look back on the very beginnings of the band, try to hear and feel how the story that is about to end came to be. We are very proud to present this collection of early songs, first Bohemian blooms which already carry in their core the drunken magic, the inimitable bitter sweet flavour, the slow poison which later distilled itself in RUMORARMONIO, FACCIA A FACCIA, CUORI DI PETROLIO and CHAPPAQUA. All tracks have been restored from the original tapes and appear here for the first time on vinyl. Included is a selection of the rare and much sought-after demo tracks released in the 90s on NOVY SVET's own tape-label JUNGES WIEN, as well as completely unreleased archive material from the recording sessions of the first three albums. A unique opportunity to hear those lost jewels, once cast aside and yet which so deserve to finally be known to a wider audience.
